Giddings-Leonard Nuptials.

The DAILY ENTERPRISE was in error when it stated that Miss May Leonard was a niece of Officer James Leonard. We should have said she was his sister. The following account of the celebration of the nuptials is from the Brenham Daily Press:

This (Monday) afternoon at Burton Mr. J. D. Giddings and Miss Gertrude Leonard were united in marriage. The ceremony occurred at the residence of Mrs. Watson, Rev. E. P. Newsom, pastor of Giddings Memorial Methodist church at this place, officiating.

The air of sentiment and sweetness that invariably characterize a home wedding, was not absent on this occasion. The only Brenham attendants were Mr. J. S. Giddings father of the groom, Misses Mabel and Mattie Giddings, and Miss Beulah Kennedy, the former sisters, and the latter a cousin of the happy new-made benedict.

After the ceremony refreshments of salads, ices and their usual accessories were served in the dining room, which was a complement style of floral decoration to the adjoining room.

The bride and groom and attendants will return to Brenham on the evening passenger via the Central and will repair to the residence of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Giddings, where they will be entertained prior to their departure on the midnight Santa Fe for Lyons, where the groom has fitted up for housekeeping in the handsome residence formerly occupied by Mr. A. J. Radford.

The groom, at present a popular young business man of Lyons, is a member of one of Brenham's oldest and most distinguished families, and has a host of friends throughout this section who will join the Press in extending congratulations on the happy consummation of life's most important event. The bride is a popular member of Burton's most exclusive social circles, and is a prize the winning of which may well afford her husband all the happiness wished for them both, by friends at Burton, Brenham, Lyons and elsewhere.
